Learning Material (Print Media) : The SLM is designed such that it is self-explanatory and easily understandable by the learner, and the feedback of the learners is taken into consideration while updating the SLM. Assignment and Activities are incorporated in the Self Learning Material. Each Unit has a defined structure. Each course, block, and unit has defined learning objectives and learning outcomes. Each block is divided further into blocks and units. The SLMs of all the programs follow a standard format and layout having a unit structure at the beginning of each unit, examples, case studies, glossary and suggested reading. 2. Audio-Video Material: The Audio-video contents of all the programmes are available in both Regional Language and English. The delivery of the content is simple, clear and free from any pedagogic jargon. The videos are prepared on the basis of the need assessment report and based on the requirements of target-audience. The audio-video content is developed in correlation with the Learning Objectives and Learning outcomes of a Programme. The sound and image synchronization is perfectly maintained in all the audio-video contents. The course content is incorporated with relevant animations and graphics for a better understanding of the target audience. The formats used in the Audio-video material is compatible with all the electronic device. 3. Online Material: All the courses are divided into blocks, units, and video-lessons. The material has a complete description of objectives, activities, assignments, and resources. University has developed its own IT policy and all the guidelines are followed to maintain the internet-etiquette. Discussion forums, chats, and quizzes are provided in the online-learning to actively engage the learners. The activities and assignments are designed such that the clarification of the concept and development of the skills can be tested in the learners. The platform is designed such that the navigation for the user is easy and user-friendly. At each level of the online platform, the feedback option is activated for the learners so that they can provide their inputs or issues regarding the program at any stage. Reference materials and links of online resources are provided at the end of each unit for the successful completion of the course. The content can be accessed in all types of electronic devices. <https://egyanyoti.in/> 4. Computer-based material: The students can access the e-material at any time anywhere using their personal computers or smartphones. All the courses are organized into units and modules. The e-materials have a unit-overview along with structure describing its content, activities, and assignments. Each module has a defined credit value. The learners will be engaged in assignments, activities, to provide them a thorough knowledge of the content. All the computer-based materials have appropriate readability levels, written language assignments, and mathematical requirements. 5. Curriculum and Pedagogy: The curriculum objectives are inconsistent with the mission of Odisha State Open University. The curriculum objectives are prepared on the basis of the need assessment report, learners' feedback, Expert Committee report and Statutory bodies approval. The curriculum of all the Undergraduate and Postgraduate programs of Odisha State Open University is designed as per the UGC curriculum and Odisha State Higher Education Council. All the programmes have a defined programme structure and a Programme Project Report is prepared for each programme. Both summative and formative assessments are done for each programme. The evaluation is based on the Term End Examination, Internal assignments, practicals, and projects. National standards are maintained for the production of audio-video content. The syllabus of all the programs is formed by an Expert Committee consisting of experienced subject experts. The curriculum is based on the UGC guided syllabus and Curriculum formulated by Odisha State Higher Education Council as followed in other conventional Universities.

Part - 7: Compliance status of 'Guidelines on preparation of Self-learning Material' – As per Annexure - VIII of UGC (ODL) Regulations, 2017:

HEI shall mention the process followed to ensure that SLMs are prepared as per the guidelines mentioned in the Regulations. The explicit details of approval by its Statutory Authorities shall also be mentioned.

Following criteria are followed while preparation of a Self Learning Material in Odisha State Open University: A need assessment survey is conducted before the launch of a program to know about the prospective learners for a program. The learner profile like the literacy level, age group, ICT skills, the aim of the study, location, prior knowledge, and skills is taken into consideration while preparation of the learner. All the learning materials at OSOU are made available to the learners both in hard copy and soft copy so that they can access it anytime anywhere. An Expert Committee is constituted for each programme to review the SLMs and monitor its preparation by domain experts. Learning outcomes and objectives are prepared for each program at Block , Course and Unit level prior to the preparation of the SLMs. The SLM is developed as per the defined credit structure. Various activities and assignments are incorporated in the SLMs. A programme guide is prepared for mentioning the structure of the programme Each Unit of the SLM have a defined Structure. The SLM of each course is divided into blocks and each block into units and sub-units for a better understanding of the learner. Assignments are based on the Learning objectives of the SLM. The SLMs are made available to the learners in both print form and in e-learning form. The SLM in the electronic form are easy to download and can be accessed through any device. COURSE MATERIAL DEVELOPMENT PROCESS: ? Clearly stated learning Objectives and outcomes for Programme, Courses and each Module/Units ? Identification of prospective learners for the Programme ? Need Assessment Study by the Programme Coordinator ? Identification of members of Expert Committee, Course Writers and Editors ? Workshop for Course writers and Editors. ? Assigning credit value for theory, practical, workshop and projects. ? Preparation of course-wise and unit-wise detailed syllabus ? Orientation of academic counsellors and ensuring quality assurance in delivery ? Making all SLMs, videos available in the OER Repository. Link of SLM: <http://egyaganagar.osou.ac.in/slm-list.php>

Part - 8: Compliance status of 'Guidelines on Programme Project Report' – As per Annexure - IX of UGC(ODL) Regulations, 2017:

HEI shall mention the process followed to ensure that PPRs are prepared as per the guidelines mentioned in the Regulations. The explicit details of approval by its Statutory Authorities shall also be mentioned.

Following is the process for the preparation of a Programme Project Report in Odisha State Open University: The University defines the mission statement and objectives for the programme to be launched as per the academic goals of the University. The identification of the programme is done to fulfill the missions and goals of the University . The diverse group of target learners is identified with their learning needs on the basis of which curriculum is designed and prepared. Learning outcomes are prepared to include the development of knowledge and understanding appropriate to the area of study and also reflect academic, professional and occupational standards of that field. It is ensured to incorporate generic transferable skills and competencies. Instructional Design of the PPR includes Curriculum design, detailed syllabi, duration of the program, faculty and support staff requirement, instructional delivery mechanisms, identification of media – print, audio or video, online, computer-aided, and student support service systems. Details of the admissions, curriculum transaction and mode of evaluation are mentioned in the PPR. All the activities related to Programme transaction are notified in the Academic Calendar. Detailed guidelines are mentioned in the PPR for programme containing practical or project component. Details of the cost or chargeable fee for the programme is mentioned in the PPR. The PPR is then placed before the Centre for Internal Quality Assurance (CIQA) for approval and that is then further approved by the Board of Management of the University. Sample PPR of MA programme of Odisha State Open University is placed as under: MASTERS PROGRAMME PROJECT REPORT 12. Students are free to select any topic for project work related to Rural Development. This will help in acquiring better understanding and conceptual clarity in the socio - economic problems prevailing in rural areas and finding out the potentials as the solution to the problems. The objectives section defines both the short-term and long-term objectives that are necessary for realization of project goal. It is also desirable to define the project objective in relation to the developmental goals, i.e., at mission, programme and project level. The objectives set out needs to be SMART. Specific: What the project wants to achieve must be stated clearly not in ambiguous terms. Measurable: Achievements must be quantifiable and capable of being measured. Achievable: The objectives should be achievable and attainable. Realistic: Should be possible realistically achieving the objectives within the available resources. Time bound: The time frame specified for achieving set objectives. Steps involved in the finalization of the topic of the Project: Project is an important element of developmental programmes. It generally refers to new tasks undertaken by an individual or organization in order to achieve a specific goal. Every project from conception to completion passes through a series of sequential phases. There is no universal consensus on the number of phases in a project cycle. However, typically a project consists of four phases - conceptualization, planning, execution and termination. Thus, there are certain steps involved in carrying out the project work which are enumerated as follows: 1. Selection of the topic: The student should select a topic related to different aspects of rural development. You should consult your Supervisor before finalizing the topic. 2. Consultation with Supervisor for preparing project proposal / Synopsis: Once the topic has been chosen, you should discuss it with your Supervisor assigned to you by your Study Centre. You may prepare your project proposal / synopsis in about 800 - 1000 words to receive remarks from your Supervisor. SYNOPSIS OF THE PROJECT REPORT The research synopsis is the plan for your research project. It provides the rationale for the research, the research objectives, the proposed methods for data collection and recording formats and/or questionnaires and interview guides. The synopsis is based on the information provided by the supervisor(s) and by secondary sources of information. In the final report you will present the results of your data collection and elaboration, with the discussion and the conclusion. The full synopsis should be maximum 800 - 1000 words, excluding appendices. Following is the chapterization for the project proposal/synopsis: • Topic Headline: This should be brief and self-explanatory. It should relate directly to the main objective of the proposed research. A more specific and descriptive sub-title can be added if necessary, for example to indicate the main methodology that will be applied. The title of the final report can be different from the working title of the synopsis. • Introduction: Here you should introduce the main problem, set it into context and introduce the particular niche within the main subject area that you will work with. For example, the main subject area could be deforestation and the Introduction would then briefly argue why it is relevant to be concerned with deforestation – to whom it is a problem and why. The niche could be the role of small-scale farmers in deforestation processes in mountain areas. Justification for the niche should also be included in the Introduction. 'Justifying' a research problem means providing information documenting that both the main problem and the specific niche are of relevance to others than yourself, such as the scientific community and stakeholders. A research problem can be, for example, a gap of knowledge, an unexplained observation, something not yet analysed (using this systematic, with this level of detail, from this particular angle), or something that does not fit traditional beliefs (Rienecker and Jorgensen, 2006). The information you provide as documentation for the existence and relevance of the problem should primarily be scientific peer reviewed literature. Newspaper articles, blogs and a lot of material from the internet are not subject to quality control and are therefore considered less trustworthy. • Review of the Literature: Review of literature is a collective body of works done by earlier researchers and published in the form of books, journals, articles. It helps in generating ideas and developing significant questions for the research work. • Significance of the study: The rationale for carrying out the particular project is explained here. • Objectives of the study: These should be identified on the basis of the problem analysis. That means, after reading the problem analysis it should be immediately clear that the choice of objectives is relevant and justified. The objectives should focus on concepts and problems mentioned in the problem analysis Each research proposal should contain one overall objective describing the general contribution that the research project makes to the subject area as well as one or more specific objectives focusing on discrete tasks that will be achieved during the research. The overall objective may be something that the study will contribute towards but not solve/finish; the overall objective should not be a compilation of the specific objectives. • Hypothesis of the study (If any): These are predictions of the outcomes from the study. It is useful at the outset to specify the hypotheses in terms of the assumed relations between variables so as to clarify the position and pre-understanding of the researcher. If statistical tests are to be conducted formulation of hypotheses is a crucial element of the research design. Hypotheses can be derived from theory, experience or knowledge concerning contextual factors. In purely quantitative, deductive research hypotheses are tested statistically, whereas in qualitative, inductive research hypotheses are not formulated. • Research Methodology (includes data collection process & statistical process): Methodology includes Sample, Tests/Tools, and Statistical Analysis. The size and nature of the sample will depend on the topic selected. Tests/ tools are to be selected based on the objectives of the research. The data collected with the help of the tests/ tools is then analyzed by using appropriate statistical techniques. • Limitations: Although the specific or immediate objectives may be quite narrow, they could probably imply much more data collection and analysis than possible for a thesis. To demonstrate a good overview of the general subject area it should be specified what aspects will not be addressed and how this will limit conclusions. It is important to not (only) mention that due to time constraints a limited number of observations/measurements/interviews will be conducted. • References: References of books to be enlisted for reference. These should be alphabetically listed. While the above format is normally followed, it is not necessary that the same chapter scheme is used for all topics. Synopsis writing is undertaken after the topics choice is completed. Therefore, an in depth discussion should takes place between the learner / student and the academic counsellor / supervisor before finalization of the topic.
